SCHOOL LAW IS UPHELD UPON APPEAL

Ballard County Bank Case Is Reversed By Appellate Court

Grand Jury Fails to Indict
Men Who Shot Ed
Callahan

Frankfort, Ky., June 1. (Special)—The appellate court in affirming Prowse vs. the board of education of Christian county, upholds the new school law passed by the last legislature.

Ballard Bank Case Reversed.

Frankfort, Ky., June 18. (Special)—The appellate court today reversed the decision of the Ballard county circuit court in the case of the Maryland Casualty company against the Ballard County Bank of Paducah. In the lower court the bank won the case. The suit was filed in the Ballard county circuit court against the casualty company for loss sustained by the loss on the bank robbery, when the cashier was forced to open the bank vault at the point of pistol. The casualty company said it was liable only when the vault was entered by violence or the use of explosives. John K. Hendrick argued the case before the court of appeals for the casualty company.

No Indictment Returned.

Jackson, Ky., June 18. (Special)—The grand jury adjourned without returning indictment against anybody in the Callahan shooting. It says there is circumstantial evidence against Levi Johnson and Eliza Smith, but not enough to indict. The judge suggests an investigation next term. He holds John R. Smith under bond.

Lexington, Ky., June 18.—Although the bullet which was intended to end his earthly existence passed completely through him, entering his left side and coming out through his hip at right angle of forty-five degrees, Ed Callahan, the noted feud leader of Breathitt county, will survive his wound and live to mete out vengeance to his enemies. For the first time since he became the victim of an assassin's bullet almost two weeks ago, Callahan was interviewed, and while he made no outward threats against those he believed responsible for his injuries, his statement was characteristic of the man. He said that his enemies, in the effort to assassinate him, had been the first to violate the peace compact recently entered into by the leaders of the factions and that in the future they would have to take care of themselves. Henchmen of the feudal chieftain have rallied to his support and since the shooting he has been surrounded daily by from fifty to one hundred armed men ready to do his bidding.

DUEL TO DEATH

Louisville, June 18. (Special)—As a result of an old grudge, Frank Stiggers, railroad detective, and William Charles, a former employee of K. & I. Bridge Co., fought a duel in a saloon. Both were killed.

POLICE RAID ON CRAP GAME LAST EVENING

Patrolman Carter pulled off a raid single-handed yesterday that netted him one prisoner and effectively broke up a crap game in the vacant room over Sleeth's drug store. Entrances was gained by an outside stairway.

The police received a tip that a gun was running up there, without the consent of anybody, and Patrolman Carter was instructed to take Patrolman Gourdeau and close in on the place. After failing to find his partner, Patrolman Carter essayed the task alone, but he was soon going down the long hall, and there was a scurrying of feet, a vanishing of forms, and then silence.

Some of the gamblers jumped from the second story windows, others made off for the other exit and all escaped, more or less demoralized, and some of them bruised.

Patrolman Carter captured the biggest man in the crowd and took him to the station. He was afraid to delay the raid any longer lest the tip get out.

Miss Jane Stephenson has gone to visit Miss Lucy White Booker at her home on Harrod's Creek for a stay of several weeks.

Funerals of Dr. Dismukes and Mac D. Ferguson Held Today—Deaths In Calloway County Are Numerous

Manas at White House,
Washington, D. C., June 18.—A man claiming to be Col. James Strickling of Hosuebury, Ark., was arrested while trying to gain admission to the White House here Thursday. He was sent to the government insane hospital today. He carried a big revolver when he was arrested.

Arrests at Vera Cruz.
Vera Cruz, June 18.—A number of arrests were made, including members and ex-members of the police force, in connection with an alleged plot to burn the city and liberate prisoners to pillage homes. The Mexican government is investigating a report that part of the plot was of a revolutionary nature.

THREE PADUCAH DRUGGISTS ARE GIVEN OFFICES

Three Paducah druggists attended the meeting of the state pharmaceutical convention at Cerulean Springs this week, and returned laden with honors. E. J. Pettit was elected delegate to the National Retail Druggists' Association at Louisville September 6. Jesse Gilbert was selected to the committee on adulterations, and S. H. Windham was elected first vice-president.

E. T. Penny, of Stanford, was elected president. B. F. Hunt of Mayfield, was elected second vice-president.

One of the principal subjects of discussion was the prohibition of the sale of opium and its alkaloids, excepting on prescription of a physician and prohibiting the refilling of prescriptions. The convention adopted a resolution endorsing such a law, and the legislature will be asked to enact it. This is aimed at the drug habit.

AUTO RACES BEGIN AT CROWN POINT WITH BIG CROWDS

Crown Point, Ind., June 18.—Matson, with the Chalmers-Detroit, wins the race. The elapsed time was 4:31:21. Monson, with the Marmon, was second.

Brown Point, Ind., June 18.—Sixteen autos started at 9 a. m., in the race for the Indiana trophy, "The Western Vanderbilt." The distance is 232 miles, 23 miles to lap. The country's best known drivers are in the contest. It is the first event in what is designed to be an annual affair. Immense crowds are present and Chicago society is conspicuous. A thousand Illinois militiamen are patrolling the course. Serious accidents are not expected. Because the dangerous turns are so perilous none will attempt them at high speed. A woman and three men were badly hurt this morning, going from Chicago to the races, in a wreck of their automobile.

COUNTY SCHOOLS GRADUATE BANNER CLASS THIS YEAR

LaCenter, Ky., June 18. (Special)—After sinking slowly for many months, McDougal Ferguson, 51 years old, state railroad commissioner for this district, died suddenly yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. His death was due to diabetes, although his condition was made worse by an attack of malarial fever. His condition was not regarded as critical until yesterday afternoon. Many of his friends did not know of his illness.

The end came peacefully, and Mr. Ferguson was conscious to the last hour. His children and brother, Dr. H. V. Ferguson, of Pembroke, were at his bedside. The announcement of his death was a surprise to his many friends as his public life had given an acquaintance over the state.

Mr. Ferguson was born May 16, 1858, in Montgomery county, Tenn. With his parents he removed to Ballard county many years ago and resided on a large farm. He was reared on the farm, and attended the common schools. For one term he taught school, and in 1897 he began the study of law in Louisville. However, he never devoted much attention to the law, and during the greater part of his life lived on a farm in Ballard county near LaCenter. For some time was in the insurance business. In 1891 he was elected to the legislature as a representative from Ballard and Carlisle counties. He took his seat as state senator in 1897. In 1903 he was elected state railroad commissioner from the First district. He was re-elected and at his death was serving his second term. As railroad commissioner Mr. Ferguson represented 37 counties as the state is divided into three districts, and his re-election testified to his popularity.

Socially Mr. Ferguson was well liked, and had a manner of retaining friendship. His father was the Rev. John D. Ferguson, a Christian preacher, and Mr. Ferguson was a member of the First Christian church of Paducah. He resided in Paducah about five years, but moved back to his old home. He was a member of the Ingleside Lodge of Odd Fellows, and of the Paducah club of Elks.

Mr. Ferguson is survived by five children: Misses Lillian Ferguson, Elizabeth Ferguson, Lulu Ferguson, and Garth K. Ferguson and Master Melvoual Ferguson, Jr. Two brothers survive, the Rev. R. V. Ferguson of Pembroke, and J. R. Ferguson, of Clarksville, Tenn. Mr. Ferguson was a cousin of Mrs. E. G. Boone, Mrs. H. C. Overby, of Paducah, Mrs. A. S. Dabney, of Chicago, and Mrs. Frank L. Scott, of Denver.

The funeral took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock. The burial was in Mt. Pleasant cemetery, two miles from La Center.

Burial of Dr. Dismukes.
Mayfield, Ky., June 18. (Special)—Business was suspended here today during the funeral of the late Dr. J. L. Dismukes, Sr., which took place at the First Baptist church at 10 o'clock. The Rev. W. D. Nowlin preached the funeral sermon.

Dr. Dismukes was buried with military honors at the city cemetery where Gen. H. A. Tyler, of Hickman, took command.

The procession was one of the longest ever witnessed in Mayfield. Practically the whole town participated. The order of march was:

Confederate soldiers in uniform, on foot with the flag.

The Sons of the Confederacy, on foot.

Matson, driving the Chalmers-Detroit, is leading at the finish lap of the first half of the race. His speed average is 56 miles an hour. Monson, in a Marmon, is second. Robertson, in a locomobile, is third. All are close up. Matson, in the Corbin, and Ruehl, in a Ful car, are not seen since the first lap, but no accidents are reported.

INDIANS OUTGROW THE CANOE.

Power Boats Replace Historic Craft in Lake Michigan Funeral Procession.

Traverse City, Mich., June 18.—An Indian funeral on Lake Michigan in which power launches were substituted for canoes marked a striking departure from the customs of Michigan's legendary literature.

Down to the present time the Indians of this region have clung tenaciously to the canoe of the "Illi-watha" period.

But at the funeral of Joseph Cornstalk the traditional canoe was conspicuously by its absence. Fully 100 Indians escorted the body to the cemetery on Garden Island, but all the company traveled in modern power launches.

TWENTY-ONE DAYS OF RACING HERE

FAIR ASSOCIATION CONTRACTS WITH MARK MOORE.

WHY BE GIVEN SOON AFTER CLOSE OF MEET IN OKLAHOMA CITY.

OVER THREE HUNDRED HORSES

Twenty-one days of racing will be given at the fair grounds about July 17. The contract for the races was signed yesterday afternoon by Mark Moore, a bookmaker of St. Louis, and the Paducah Fair association. The meet will be held under the auspices of the fair association, but Moore will manage it. The meet will be a continuation of the July races, which had been planned by the Paducah horsemen. The racing will be held July 5, 6 and 7, and there will be an interval of several days before the horses for the long meet will arrive, as at present Moore is racing at Oklahoma City.

The meet in Oklahoma City probably will close July 6 and it will take several days for all the horses to reach the city. The opening date will be arranged next week, and the advertising literature will be scattered through western Kentucky.

Large crowds from all of the adjoining counties, as well as from the cities is expected.</p

Daily Thought.

To make a mistake is human, but he who makes the same mistake twice is foolish."

Judging from the first greeting between the czar and kaiser, we suspect the two monarchs went out on Flitkis bay to spoon.

PADUCAH'S DRAINAGE PROBLEM

It is a pleasure to observe the interest both the city and county administrations are taking in the subject of drainage. Health, comfort and wealth are involved in Paducah's problem, which is complicated by the fact that the level streets prevent surface drainage, and the ramifications of creeks and bayous, which fill with back water when the river is high, break the city into sections, which interfere with uniform development, and render impossible that compactness, which is always advantageous in a city. The drainage of the northwest section into Perkin's creek is an important step, and we trust there will be a full attendance of the committees at the conference at the county judges' office tonight.

The elimination of Bradshaw creek as a factor in civic life, is not a single problem, but is related to the filling of all those hollows running back from the confluence of Island creek and the Tennessee. It is an engineering problem, requiring deep study, much skill, and, perhaps, considerable money.

The opening of Fountain avenue south to Guthrie avenue will add a section of the city too long neglected and will emphasize the necessity of redeeming hundreds of acres of valuable land almost in the heart of the city.

It looks easy to put a pipe under ground in the bed of Bradshaw creek and fill over it with dirt. But these creeks have an outlet and when the river will back into the creeks, and the pipes, if they are laid. The whole scheme of draining and filling the hollows probably will have to be considered as one.

TYRANNY IS TYRANNY.

Two classes of people in this country dislike Roosevelt: The trust barons, who desire no legal restraints on individualism; and those ultra socialists, who wish to revolutionize the existing order of things. Mr. Roosevelt stands squarely between the two, shouting that the tyranny of a mob in the name of "liberty" is just as bad and no worse than industrial tyranny in the name of "order." He is a student of history and of present day problems, and with it all a patriot. He is no longer president; there are no higher honors for him to aspire to, and his words may be accepted as coming from one, who has no personal end to gain and no motives to be suspected.

As Bryan suggests, it is a hideous doctrine to preach, that nations must inevitably rise and fall, as youth grows to manhood and sinks into decay. But whether or not this is true, depends upon each succeeding generation, and we are at a crisis. It would be suicide to overthrow the present system before the people have developed a capacity for maintaining a Utopian condition; and let us warn the Socialists right here, that we will approximate just as closely the ideal Democracy, as we deserve and have the capacity to sustain; and neither sumptuary legislation nor the superficial Hindoo philosophy of the new thought folks will bring mathematically exact justice any nearer. The Socialist should turn his attention to preparing his soil before he plants his crop. When the brotherhood of man is established in American hearts it will be enacted in American legislation and executed in the governmental system, and not before.

On the other hand, Mr. Roosevelt is right. We cannot depend alone on competition and individualism to protect personal and common rights; for out of the system of competition have grown up the monopolies and cooperative trusts, with no hindrance to all the evil possibilities of their tendencies. It is not sufficient that they are temporarily made to behave by popular agitation. Laws—wise laws—to hold them in check and relieve them of their evil tendencies must be adopted. Then the course of natural development will carry us whither our virtues direct.

AUDIENCES.
It is as interesting to watch the audience of a humorist, as to listen to his witlessness. Roughly his audience may be divided into three classes: Some go prepared to laugh, because the humorist is advertised as funny, and meet him half way. They must be the delight of his soul. Then, there are those, who take the matter seriously, and, since the humorist is advertised as such, naturally become engrossed in studying and classifying his style, that they forget to laugh. The third unhappy section is composed of those whose mental attitude seems to say: "You are a humorist, now see if you can make me laugh."

Happy are the members of the first division, who go to laugh and do laugh. It makes them forget themselves, it makes them change the air in their lungs, exercise their diaphragms and turn their livers upside down. The second class finds enjoyment in studying how the humorist extracts the laughs from the first division. Nothing but a shock will surprise a laugh out of the rebellious-minded third division.

Senator Payne never plays to the galleries, but all through this important session he has spoken and voted upon the tariff issue as a Democratic senator, who is a Democrat in principle as well as in name.

The senate elects its own committees, and with the Aldrich Republicans in control, most of the choice committee assignments are at the disposal of Democratic senators willing to repudiate their party's platform.

Senator Payne has won no distinction by that sort of trading, but he is winning his position in the senate by his display of other qualities more worthy of commendation.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Call for Republican County Convention.

At a meeting of the Republican county executive committee of McCracken county, held in Paducah on the 15th day of June, 1909, at 2:30 p. m., it was unanimously ordered that the chairman call the Republicans of McCracken county to meet in mass convention at the court house in Paducah on the 17th day of July, 1909, at 2 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of naming a county ticket to be voted for at the election in November, 1909, the viva voce manner of voting to be used.

In the current number of Collier's Weekly an honor roll is printed containing the names of those Democratic senators who, at every division, have voted in accordance with the platform pledges of their party relative to tariff revision and in conformity with the obvious wishes of a large majority of their constituents. In this list is the name of Mr. Thomas H. Payne, senior senator from Kentucky.

Senator Payne never plays to the galleries, but all through this important session he has spoken and voted upon the tariff issue as a Democratic senator, who is a Democrat in principle as well as in name.

Courier-Journal.

With the return of business prosperity and the improvement in industrial conditions, a large number of electric railway lines are being projected in the south. Kentucky, which already has made a fair beginning in trolley development, should see the construction of many such lines in the near future. Louisville is now surrounded with a network of electric railways, to which material extensions and additions undoubtedly will be made. Lexington has made a good start toward connecting itself with its sister cities of the Bluegrass region. Covington and Newport have profited in this respect by their proximity to Cincinnati. Ashland is connected with Catlettsburg and some of the enterprising West Virginia towns across the river. Paducah, Owensboro, Frankfort, Henderson and other cities have ambitious projects on hand that will be carried out in the fullness of time. At some day in the future the map of Kentucky, it only half the dream of promoters come true, will resemble a collection of cobwebs with its representations of these lines radiating out from the centers of population and commerce, you will be hanged."

We have not learned whether the Federation of Women's clubs sent the fiscal court of McCracken county a copy of their resolution commanding the work of Mrs. Cranor in Kentucky or not. If they have not done so we trust the oversight may be remedied yet.

WOMAN, LOVELY WOMAN

But Alas, Without Beautiful Hair No Woman Can Be Handsome.

A great many newspapers and magazines are printing pages on how a woman can be beautiful and keep beautiful.

And everyone, as you can see for yourself, admits that no woman can be really beautiful unless she has traveled much claims that their beauty is due to their knowledge of how to keep their hair luxuriant, which they do by using a superior hair tonic.

Many American women are as wise as their French sisters, and that is why Parisian Sage, the quick acting and greatest of all hair restorers and tonics, is now having such a tremendous sale in America.

We ask every woman reader of this paper to give this marvelous hair beautifier a thorough trial, and we gladly make them this liberal offer:

Get a large 50 cent bottle from Gilbert's drug store today, the largest for the money in America. Use it as directed for two weeks. If at the end of that time you are not satisfied with results, say so to W. J. Gilbert and he will give you your money back.

Besides being a delightful and invigorating hair dressing, free from greasy and stickiness, Parisian Sage will surely cure dandruff, stop falling hair and itching of the scalp, or money back.

The girl with the Auburn hair is on every package, and leading drugists in every town sell Parisian Sage.

Thralldom of Names--Roosevelt.

In the Outlook this week Theodore Roosevelt writes an editorial, entitled the "Thralldom of Names," on the misuse of the words "liberty" and "order" by those who would tyrannize over the people. He warns against the despotism of individualism and the oligarchy of the mob. He says:

It behoves our people never to fall under the thralldom of names, and least of all to be misled by designing people who appeal to the reverence for or antipathy toward a given name in order to achieve some alien purpose. Of course such misuse of names is as old as the history of what we understand when we speak of civilized mankind. The rule of a mob may be every whit as tyrannical and oppressive as the rule of a single individual, whether or not called a dictator; and the rule of an oligarchy, whether this oligarchy is a plutocracy of a bureaucracy, or any other small set of powerful men, may in its turn be just as sordid and just as blood-thirsty as that of a mob. But the apologists for the mob or oligarchy or dictator, in justifying the tyranny, use different words. The mob leaders usually state that all that they are doing is necessary in order to advance the cause of "liberty," while the dictator and the oligarchy are usually defended upon the ground that the course they follow is absolutely necessary so as to secure "order." Many excellent people are taken in by the use of the word "liberty" at the one time, and the use of the word "order" at the other, and ignore the simple fact that despotism is despotism, tyranny tyranny, oppression oppression, whether committed by one individual or by many individuals, by a state or by a private corporation.

Moreover, tyranny exercised on behalf of one set of people is very apt in the long run to damage especially the representatives of that very class by the violence of the reaction which it invites. The course of the second republic in France was such, with its mobs, its bloody civil tumults, its national workshops, its bitter factional divisions, as to invite and indeed insure its overthrow and the establishment of a dictatorship; while it is needless to mention the innumerable instances in which the name of order has been invoked to sanction tyranny and all public order have disappeared together. The second empire in France led straight up to the Paris commune; and nothing so well shows how far the French people had advanced in fitness for self-government as the fact that the hideous atrocity of the commune, which rendered it imperative that it should be rigorously repressed, nevertheless did not produce another violent reaction, but left the French people as resolute in their refusal to be ruled by a king as by a mob.

Of course when a great crisis actually comes, no matter how much people have been misled by names, they promptly awaken to their unimportance. To the individual who suffered under the guillotine at Paris, or in the drownings in the Loire, or in the individual who a century before was expelled from his beloved country, or tortured, or sent to the galley, it made no difference whatever that on, set of acts was performed under Robespierre and Danton and Marat in the name of liberty and reason and the rights of the people, or that the other was performed in the name of order and authority and religion by the direction of the great monarch. Tyranny and cruelty were tyranny and cruelty just as much in one case as in the other, and just as much when those guilty of them used one shibboleth as when they used another. All forms of tyranny and cruelty must alike be condemned by honest men.

We in this country have been very fortunate. Thanks to the teaching and the practice of the men whom we most revere as leaders, of the like Washington and Lincoln, we have hitherto escaped the twin guits of despotism and mob rule, and we have never been in any danger from the worst forms of religious bitterness. But we should therefore be at the more careful, as we deal with our industrial and social problems, not to fall into mistakes similar to those which have brought lasting disaster on less fortunately situated people. We have achieved democracy in politics just because we have been able to steer a middle course between the rule of the mob and the rule of the dictator. We shall achieve industrial democracy because we shall steer a similar middle course between the extreme individualist and the Socialist, between the demagogue who attacks all wealth and who can see no wrong done anywhere unless it is perpetrated by a man of wealth, and the apologist for the plutocracy who fails against so much as a restatement of the eighth commandment upon the ground that it will "hurt business."

Sound Ethics.

First and foremost we must stand firmly on a basis of good sound ethics. We intend to do what is right for the ample and sufficient reason that it is right. If business is hurt by the stern exposure of crookedness and the result of efforts to punish the crooked man, then business must be hurt, even though good men are involved in the hurting, until it so adjusts itself that it is possible to prosecute wrongdoing without stampeding the business community into a terror-struck defense of the wrong-doers and no angry assault upon those who have exposed them. On the other hand, we must beware, above all things, of being misled by wicked or foolish men who would condone homicide and violence, and apologize for the dynamiter and the assassin because, foreotho they choose to take the ground that crime is no crime. If the wicked man happens also to have been a shiftless and unthrifty or lazy man who has never amassed property, it is essential that we should wrest the control of the government out of the hands of rich men who use it for unhealthy purposes, and should keep it out of their hands; and to this end the first requisite is to provide means adequately to deal with corporations, which are essential to modern business, but which, under the decisions of the courts, and because of the short-sightedness of the public, have become the chief factors in political and business debasement. But it would be just as bad to put the control of the government into the hands of demagogues and visionaries who seek to pander to ignorance and prejudice by penalizing thrift and business enterprise, and ruining all men of means, with, as an attendant result, the ruin of the entire community. The tyranny of politicians with a bureaucracy behind them and a mass of ignorant people supporting them would be just as insufferable as the tyranny of big corporations. The tyranny would be the same in each case, and it would make no more difference that one was called individualism, and the other collectivism, than it made in French history whether tyranny was exercised in the name of the commune or of the emperor, or of a committee of national safety, or of a king.

The sinister and adroit reactionary, the sinister and violent radical, are alike in this, that each works in the end for the destruction of the cause that he professedly champions. If the one is left to his own devices, he will utterly discredit the entire system of government by individual initiative; and if the other is allowed to work his will, in his turn, will make men so loath to interfere and control by the state that any abuses connected with the untrammeled control of all business by private individuals will set small by comparison. We cannot afford to be empirical. We must judge each case on its merits. It is absolutely indispensable to foster the spirit of individual initiative, of self-reliance, of self-help; but this does not mean that we are to refuse to face facts and to recognize that the growth of our complex civilization necessitates an increase in the exercise of the functions of the state. It has been shown beyond power of refutation that unrestricted individualism, for instance, means the destruction of our forests and our water supply. The dogma of "individualism" cannot be permitted to interfere with the duty of a great city to see that householders, small as well as big, live in decent and healthy buildings, drink good water, and have the streets adequately lighted and kept clean. Individual initiative, the reign of individualism, may be crushed out just as effectively by the unchecked growth of private monopoly if the state does not interfere at all, as it would be crushed out under communism, or as it would disappear, together with everything else that makes life worth living, if we adopted the tenets of the extreme Socialists.

Party of Discontent. In 1896 the party of discontent met with smashing defeat for the very reason that, together with legitimate attacks on real abuses, they combined wholly illegitimate advocacy even of the methods of dealing with these real abuses, and in addition stood for abuses of their own which, in far-reaching damage, would have cast quite into the shade the effects of the abuses against which they warned. It was essential both to the material and moral progress of the country that these forces should be beaten, and beaten they were, overwhelmingly. But the genuine ethical revolt against these forces was aided by a very ugly materialism, and this materialism at one time claimed the victory as exclusively its own, and advanced it as a warrant and license for the refusal to interfere with any misdeeds on the part of men of wealth. What such an attitude meant was set forth as early as 1896 by an English visitor, the journalist Stevens, a man of marked insight. Mr. Stevens did not see with entire clearness of vision into the complex American character; it would have been marvelous if a stranger of his slight experience here could so have seen; but it would be difficult to put certain important facts more clearly than he put them. Immediately after the election he wrote as follows (I condense slightly):

An Englishman's View. In the United States legal organization of industry has been left wholly wanting. Little is done by the state. All is left to the initiative of the individual. The apparent negligence is explained partly by the

HER PHYSICIAN ADVISED

Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Columbus, Ohio.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound during a change of life. My doctor told me it was good, and since taking it I feel so much better that I can do all my work again. I think Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a fine remedy for all woman's troubles, and never forget to tell my friends what it has done for me."

—Mrs. E. HANSON, 303 East Long St., Columbus, Ohio.

Another Woman Helped.

Graniteville, Vt.—"I was passing through the Chamber of Life and suffered from indigestion and other annoying symptoms. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored my health and strength, and proved worth mountains of money to me. For the sake of other suffering women I am willing you should publish my letter."—Mrs. CHARLES BARCLAY, R.F.D., Graniteville, Vt.

Women who are passing through this critical period or who are suffering from any of those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of the fact that for thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills. In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

chanical progress, and partly by their reliance on competition. They have cast overboard the law as the safeguard of individual rights, and have put themselves under the protection of competition, and of it alone. Now a trust in its exacting acceptance is that the negation of competition. It is certain that commercial concerns make frequent, powerful, and successful combinations to override the public interest. All such corporations are left unfettered in a way that to an Englishman appears almost a return to savagery. The defenselessness of individual liberty against the encroachment of the railway companies, tramway companies, insurance companies, and the like, is little less than horrible. Where regulating acts are proposed, the companies unite to oppose them; where such acts exist, they hire corrupt officials to ignore them. When they want any act for themselves, it is always bought for cash. (This is of course a gross exaggeration; and it is not to be made to the violent and demagogic attacks upon corporations, which are even more common than and are quite as noxious as acts of oppression by corporations.) They maintain their own members in the legislative bodies—pocket assemblymen, pocket representatives, pocket senators. In the name of individual freedom and industrial progress they have become the tyrants of the whole community. Law-

It is his duty to care for and clothe, shelter, medicate, an education a legitimate chance for reasonable and healthy amusements, and the opportunity to acquire the knowledge and power which will fit them in their turn to do good work in the world. When once a man has reached this point, which of course will vary greatly under different conditions, then he must reach the point where other things become immensely more important than adding to his wealth. It is emphatically right, indeed it is demanded, that he should not be controlled by his wealth, and whose life represents either profligacy, or at best an idle, useless, and tasteless extravagance. This country cannot afford to let its conscience grow warped and twisted, as it must grow if it takes either one of these two positions. We must draw the line, not on wealth nor on poverty, but on conduct. We must stand for the good citizen because he is a good citizen, whether he be rich or whether he be poor, and we must mercilessly attack the man who does evil, wholly without regard to whether the evil is done in high or low places, whether it takes the form of homicidal violence among members of a federation of miners, or of unscrupulous craft and greed in the hands of some great Wall street corporation.

FIGHT FOR FREE PRINT PAPER ON

SENATOR BROWN GOES AMONG ENEMIES OF PROPOSITION

Tillman Wanted to Know Why Newspapers in Favor of Protective Tariff

WANT MATERIALS ON FREE LIST

Washington, June 18.—The battle to place wood pulp and print paper upon the free list was opened up in the senate under leadership of Brown, of Nebraska. Going over to that portion of the chamber in which Aldrich, Hale, Frye, Lodge, Galligan, Smoot and other leaders have their seats, the Nebraskan stood in the midst of the opposing forces and with good humor handled the thrusts which came to him from all quarters as he delivered a telling speech in behalf of the cause he had espoused.

Showing familiarity with all available information on the wood pulp and paper schedules, Brown frequently quoted from various authorities to substantiate his contention that wood pulp and print paper are both produced in the United States with cheaper labor and cheaper materials, resulting in a cheaper product, than can be obtained in Canada. Citing rates of wages in this country and Canada, he undertook to show that the United States had an advantage in this respect.

There was a large attendance of Democrats who, for the most part, remained silent throughout the session. Tillman was an exception. With characteristic bluntness he asked how it was that the newspapers advocating a protective tariff desired free trade in the material they use. Then looking over the senate with a frown and stamping his foot upon the carpet, the South Carolinian declared "They are humbugs."

Ballew was also heard briefly. In a facetious manner, he suggested that an amendment should be drawn giving the benefit of free paper to the free traders papers and levying a duty on paper used by the protective tariff journals.

Brown still held the floor when the senate adjourned earlier than usual to permit a Democrat caucus. He will resume consideration of his amendment for free paper tomorrow.

The senate today adopted the window glass schedule placing a lower duty on such as is provided either by the Dingley law or by the house bill.

Because of the intense competition by German manufacturers the duty on illustrated post cards was increased 325 per cent above the Dingley law. The schedules relating to lithographic paper, calendars, cigar bands, and such products, were adopted.

Alone in Saw Mill at Midnight gamidful of dampness, drafts, storms or cold, W. J. Atkins worked as Night Watchman, at Banner Springs, Tenn. Such exposure gave him a severe cold that settled on his lungs. At last he had to give up work. He tried many remedies but all failed till he used Dr. King's New Discovery. "After using one bottle," he writes, "I went back to work as well as ever." MCGRAW AND RAYMOND CLASH.

Manager Administers Chastisement to Player While on the Train.

Pittsburgh, June 18.—John McGraw, manager of the New York Nationals, and "Bugs" Raymond, the eccentric pitcher of the same baseball club, had a rough and tumble argument while en route from Cincinnati to this city early today. It is said McGraw reprimanded Raymond for the latter's conduct while in Cincinnati.

McGraw today said: "Raymond got a little 'strong' on the train and needed correction. I didn't want to fine him so I just administered a little chastisement."

Raymond, who carries a split lip as a result of the encounter, says the mix-up came after McGraw had jumped on him without provocation. The two men appeared on the ball grounds this afternoon apparently reconciled.
